

NATURE SENSE - HEARING

Humans have five senses: Taste, Touch, Sight, Smell, and Hearing. Information collected by our senses helps us to know the world around us! In nature, many animals make sounds for other animals to hear. Those sounds may tell another animal where they are or what they are doing. And, animals aren't the only things in nature that make noise.

Your Name: .....

Today's Date: .....

Your Location: .....

Season: .....

Let's get outside and hear what's happening in nature!
Describe the sounds you hear in the spaces below.

Birds Chirping

Other Animals

Atmosphere

Water

"Wilderness sounds would be here, bird songs in the morning and at dusk. The aspen leaves would whisper and the pines as well, and in the sound of water and wind I would hear all that is worth listening for." Sigurd Olson

Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation

